RamseyGreat book ! Authors write in understandable terms. Really great information and insight. We read this for a class on the Holocaust at my university and it really puts events in an order that is easy to follow. Not only does it cover the rise of Nazism and Hitler, but begins with the origins of anti-Semitism beginning with the Judeo-Roman War and Jesus. Excellent read0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Five StarsBy SpringGreat condition.7 of 15 people found the following review helpful. Professor Rubenstein was my most fascinating and challengingBy Paul D. HarvillProfessor Rubenstein was my most fascinating and challenging professor at FSU during the 1970s. His range of intellectual inquiry makes him a "Renaissance" man. He has written numerous provocative and important books.And I am re-reading the books thirty plus years later. This book though is more recent. And this is one of the best overview type of books on the Holocaust.,including the theological consequences of the Holocaust.

Distinctively coauthored by a Christian scholar and a Jewish scholar, this monumental, interdisciplinary study explores the various ways in which the Holocaust has been studied and assesses its continuing significance. The authors develop an analysis of the Holocaust's historical roots, its shattering impact on human civilization, and its decisive importance in determining the fate of the world. This revised edition takes into account developments in Holocaust studies since the first edition was published.

"Approaches to Auschwitz is brilliant in its pedagogy, authoritative in its understanding, and bold in its impact. It ranks as an original work of scholarship and among the finest--if not the finest--of the texts that professors can choose for their class."About the AuthorRichard L. Sexton Professor Emeritus of Philosophy and the Founding Director of the Center for the Study of the Holocaust, Genocide, and Human Rights at Claremont McKenna College in Claremont, California, where he taught from 1966 through 2006.
